It's a murder mystery that now spans nearly three decades and three states.

In October 1995, a man's body was discovered buried in a remote area outside Flagstaff, Arizona. At that time, an autopsy revealed the man had been murdered, but it wasn't until 2016 they were able to determine his identity through DNA technology.

In Aug. 2016, the victim was identified as Robert Bresson who was 56 at the time his body was discovered. The last time Bresson had been seen alive was in the spring of 1995 in Why, Arizona.

Bresson had ties to Lincoln, Nebraska, and Independence, Iowa. Investigators are hoping someone in those areas will have information about his disappearance or murder.

If you have any information about Robert Bresson, the Coconino County Sheriff's Office would like to hear from you. Call 928-774-4523 and ask for Detective Meyer.
